Bonnie Cummins Fielder Vocal Career Advancement Grant is Coming to Town!

by: Michelle d'Arcy

If spring is in the air, then surely beautiful voices everywhere give rise to the wonder of the season. Despite the challenges of conducting a competition during a pandemic, the WMMC Fielder Committee has exciting news to share: the competition for Bonnie Cummins Fielder Vocal Career Advancement Grant, offered every two years, will take place on May 5th. Traditionally audition finals are scheduled in early spring, but due to the uncertainty and risk of live performance during the pandemic, the committee continues to reassess the situation and, if necessary, may revert to a virtual format. With logistics yet to be finalized, the committee plans to host in-person performances at the Steinway Piano Gallery in North Austin. From a field of highly talented applicants, three finalists were selected. They are:

Krista Renée Pape is a soprano who holds a Master's Degree in Music, Vocal Performance and Pedagogy from the University of Houston. She also studied at the Moores School of Music, where she recently performed in Carmina Burana. Ms. Pape is Resident Artist, Opera North, and in 2019, she was named Emerging Artist at Opera in the Ozarks.

Brian Yeakley, currently the director of the Houston opera company Operativo, also studied at and holds degrees from the University of Houston. Mr. Yeakley has pending contracts for 2021 at both the San Antonio Opera and Opera Saratoga, where recently he showcased his talents (from the ridiculous to the sublime) in performances from Pirates of Penzance and Madama Butterfly.

Catherine Goode studied at the University of Houston and Michigan State University, where she received her Master's Degree in Performance. Ms. Goode performed this past year with the Kentucky Opera as well as in the Merola Opera Program, where she was named as Young Artist for 2021. One of her career goals is to create roles and commission a song cycle for women composers.

Each of these talented, young artists will present several pieces from their selected repertoire for the competition. The Fielder Committee will keep WMMC members apprised, but at this time it is anticipated with current social distancing measures in place, the performers, the accompanist (once again, the brilliant Dr. Maimy Fong), and the judges will be the only ones to enjoy these voices--thanks to the generosity and encouragement of Bonnie Cummins Fielder.

President's Message

Sarah Harriman

Greetings,

I'm loving that warm weather is here and while some things are staying brown, many other things are turning green, or pink, or blue or some other beautiful color.

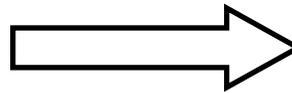

We had a great March zoom meeting and look forward to another one in April.

We're aiming to begin gathering in person in the fall, hopefully with a luncheon—won't that be fun!

I want to report that I had an absolutely marvelous 80th birthday and part of it was all the wonderful greetings I received from you. I thank you most sincerely.

And now, one last thing just in case you have been doing housework...

How a musician puts the vacuum cleaner away.

Welcome to our newest members!

Ann Palmer

I grew up on a farm outside Libertyville, Illinois about 30 miles north of Chicago. Childhood memories include attending a one-room schoolhouse, playing in our old barn, enjoying the freedom of country life, and traveling frequently into Chicago to visit the Art Institute and other cultural attractions. I graduated from Shimer College, a small liberal arts college based on the Great Books, earned a master's in French from the University of Illinois, then did a two-year stint as a Peace Corps volunteer in Tunisia. Then, after a short period as a high-school French teacher I spent a couple of years teaching French to Peace Corps volunteers bound for French-speaking Africa.

I met my husband Charles at the card catalog in the Benson Latin American Library at the University of Texas. We married in 1969 and spent our first two years together teaching English in Colombia, South America. We then spent several years at the University of Florida where I got a second master's while Charles did his Ph.D. Helping Charles with his dissertation field work in the Dominican Republic and Haiti was a real adventure. We next settled in Austin, Charles' hometown, where we raised our two children, Stephen (Ph.D. LBJ School UT) and Ruthie (Ph.D. Columbia University). I am currently into my 36th year teaching Developmental English at Austin Community College. I am an active member of the Austin Mennonite Church. One of my great pleasures is taking piano lessons from WMMC's Brian Grothues, a really fine teacher.

Under her leadership, CreativePickle has grown to become one of Austin's best creative design agencies.

Dorie enjoys playing the piano and the flute, and she composes music with her husband Ben, who plays the guitar. Dorie's mother, Carlie Burdett, was a long-time member of WMMC, and a prolific composer and talented musician. In her spare time, Dorie also loves star-gazing, running, yoga, and campfires. She lives in South Austin with Ben and their two boys. Dorie has Bachelor's and Master's degrees from the University of Texas at Austin.

National Poetry Month

April 2021 marks the 25th annual celebration of poets and poetry. Begun in 1996 by the Academy of American Poets, according to the website poets.org, “National Poetry Month reminds the public that poets have an integral role to play in our culture and that poetry matters. Over the years, it has become the largest literary celebration in the world, with tens of millions of readers, students, K-12 teachers, librarians, booksellers, literary events curators, publishers, families, and, of course, poets, marking poetry’s important place in our lives.”

If you would like to receive a daily poem in your inbox, go to poem-a-day@poets.org. On weekdays, new previously unpublished poems are featured—accompanied by commentary by the poets. On the weekends, classic poems are highlighted.

Who is the Poet Laureate of Texas? Emmy Pérez

“Remembered Music” by James Russell Lowell (1819 – 1891)

Thick-rushing, like an ocean vast
Of bisons the far prairie shaking,
The notes crowd heavily and fast
As surfs, one plunging while the last Draws seaward from its foamy breaking.

Or in low murmurs they began,
Rising and rising momentarily,
As o’er a harp Aeolian
A fitful breeze, until they ran
Up to a sudden ecstasy.

And then, like minute-drops of rain
Ringing in water silvery,
They lingering dropped and dropped again,
Till it was almost like a pain
To listen when the next would be.

(An American Romantic poet, James Russell Lowell worked against slavery and became an editor of the Atlantic Monthly, as well as a professor at Harvard.)

From NFMCA Year in Verse.

SPRING

Somewhere
a black bear
has just risen from sleep
and is staring

down the mountain.
All night
in the brisk and shallow restlessness
of early spring

I think of her,
her four black fists
flicking the gravel,
her tongue

like a red fire
touching the grass,
the cold water.
There is only one question:

how to love this world.
I think of her
rising
like a black and leafy ledge

to sharpen her claws against the silence
of the trees.
Whatever else

my life is
with its poems
and its music
and its glass cities,

it is also this dazzling darkness
coming
down the mountain,
breathing and tasting;

all day I think of her —
her white teeth,
her wordlessness,
her perfect love.

NATIONAL Music Week

MAY 2-9, 2021

Music... is a Storyteller

As I write again during the pandemic, I wonder again what our celebration of National Music Week will look and sound like in May (2-9) of 2021. I sent certificates of participation to less than 20 Senior Clubs for our 2020 celebration. I don't know if more clubs tried to participate and just didn't send in the AR -12-5 report to their state chairs or if state chairs didn't send AR 12-6 to Regional chairs or if Regional Chairs didn't send their final reports to me and the NFMC office. No celebration is too small to report, and no report is too minimal to send on to the next step. The goal for National Music Week is certainly worthy of support. We seek to invite all ages and all national affiliate organizations (MTNA, ASCAP, NATS, Music Camps, Religious Organizations, etc.) into the celebration of quality music: performance, composition, education, history, poetry, dance and other art forms.

Supplies to help you are available on the nfm-music.org website. All our forms for Governor and Mayor proclamations, radio scripts, coloring pages, and posters can be found in Publications under the Arts Division. Report forms are there too! I know clubs have creative members. Pictures of displays made in the past are amazing; recital ideas abound, new composers and music appreciate introductions, new books or valued old books still need study. We all desire to keep music in America as a vital part of our lives. This year's theme is "Music...is a storyteller." Each of us probably has favorite pieces that added to the story of our lives because the music spoke to us in a way that just words could not describe. Share that music and tell the story again! If you are a composer, write that music that tells the story of our current lives. If you are a poet, write that poem. If you are a dancer, choreograph that dance to share with others. If you are a vocalist find that song and sing it for all to hear the stories that matter to you and us. Let's all be storytellers through music! 🎵

Natural High

Marie White

When I hear the first birds of the spring, I feel an enormous sense of joy. Spending time connecting with the natural world is the perfect antidote for me. Getting close to nature – and especially listening to birdsong – doesn't just bring me physical benefits – it also helps improve my mental and emotional health, happiness and well-being.

Turns out I am not alone. Scientists at the University of Surrey have been studying the "restorative benefits of birdsong", testing whether it really does improve our mood. They discovered that, of all the natural sounds, bird songs and calls were those most often cited as helping people recover from stress, and allowing them to restore and refocus their attention.

In other words, birdsongs are good for us. So if you are missing our wonderful performers at WMMC (which also gives me a lift) try nature's concert series and go outside your door and listen. Another masterpiece is waiting for you. Our feathered friends are happy to put on their show, especially if you leave them a little something seedy for their efforts.
